The AES Student Recording Competition is a unique opportunity for students at AES international conventions to receive feedback and recognition for their audio production work. Students can enter the competition in four different categories covering every possible genre and recording technique. The process consists of pre-judging and public playback of finalists' work during the Convention. More information can be found at:

http://www.aes.org/students/awards/recording/

The AES Student Design Competition is an opportunity for aspiring hardware and software engineers to participate in a worldwide contest and gain recognition for their hard work and technical creativity. Undergraduate and graduate categories are available for entrants. More information can be found at:

http://www.aes.org/students/awards/design/

The 138th AES Convention will take place in Warsaw, Poland, 7-10 May.

This year the submission deadlines for the student competitions are:

AES Student Recording Competition deadline: Friday 10 April, 2015
AES Student Design Competition deadline: Friday 24 April, 2015